

This is a historical cadastral map from 1877, likely from the Kingdom of Saxony. It depicts a large, irregularly shaped plot of land, possibly a factory site or a large estate. The central part of the plot contains several rectangular buildings or structures, some of which are shaded in light brown. To the left of this central area is a large, open space, possibly a field or a garden, with a small stream or canal running through it. The plot is bordered by streets: 'Hero-Straße' to the north, 'Gräfin-Theda-Straße' to the east, and 'Straße' to the south. A railway line ('Eisenbahn') runs along the northern boundary. The map is divided into sections labeled 'Flur 9' and 'Flur 12'. A prominent feature is a large, irregularly shaped area outlined in green, which could represent a planned garden or a specific industrial zone. The map is signed by 'Schindler' and dated 'den 2. März 1877'. There are also smaller annotations like 'I-D-O' and '03' near some buildings.
